	Trustee Kopka	Present
	Trustee Patterson	Present

2. PUBLIC COMMENTS

President Thomas called for public comments and there were none.

3. MASB FACILITATED TRAINING

M. Kerwin provided training on Compulsory Education laws that mandate student attendance to ensure a public good and educated citizenry. This led to a discussion about obligation vs. desire and how board members can distinguish between the two. Board members actively participated in this discussion.

M. Kerwin also reviewed with board members the MASB training process which began in November 2015 when she was first asked by the partners to assist the district by provide training for board members to align with best practices. At that time discussion included board policies. All who reviewed the district's policies recognized they were outdated and out of legal compliance. She reminded the Board that previously the State Superintendent has stressed that the policies should be sent out for updates and revision. It's a legal obligation. The Board may desire to sit on policies for a decade, but they are obligated to keep them current.

There was a review of the current committee structure which is time consuming and non-productive. There should be two meetings held each month with all Board members, instead of multiple committee meetings: a Committee of the Whole Meeting and an Action Meeting. The superintendent should bring all recommendations to the board for approval. Board members need to review all materials so they are prepared to act on agenda items, be respectful of one another and others, model personal integrity and competence.

The formatting of agendas, background material, and minutes are administrative functions. These should follow best practices and be legally compliant. The Superintendent must ensure the district has a comprehensive, transparent system for efficiently and effectively filing documents for Board and public review.

Board members should be aware of communication that may result in litigation and curtail it. When a trustee wants to share communication with Board colleagues, send it to the Superintendent's Secretary for distribution.

Finally, M. Kerwin reminded board members of State Superintendent Whiston's previous discussions with them via written correspondence, a conference call and a meeting which he attended on March 16, 2016. She reaffirmed his message to the board, which outlined their roles, the role of the Superintendent, and the two models: the SRO and the MDE Partnership Program. M. Kerwin provided board members with a copy of the "Saginaw Board of Education Compliance Contract." The contract outlined the expectations by the State and the Partners in terms of the expectations for the board, Superintendent and district moving forward. It stated that, "By agreeing to the following, I am committing to the Partnership Program..." and then outlined eight bulleted items. Board members were asked to initial the bullet points indicating they agree to the terms of the contract, and sign the contract. Five of the seven board members initialed and signed the contract. Two members of the board did not sign the contract.

M. Kerwin indicated that the signed contracts would be sent to State Superintendent Whiston and the Partners.

When asked about the end date for this Partnership, M. Kerwin indicated that she was not provided with an end date. She does plan to attend the monthly Committee of the Whole and Action meetings to further assist the board and Superintendent.

Ms. Heidi Bolger (The Rehmann Group), Mr. Tom Miller (Vice President, Urban Initiatives, Saginaw Future, Inc.), and Mr. Zachary Branigan (Executive Director, Saginaw Basin Land Conservancy), provided an update and the next steps planned for the SASA Riverfront Project. Board members were provided with copies of the "Saginaw Basin Field Guide," a sample of the Janet H. Nash Riverfront Preserve concept signage, and a copy of the flyer, "Outdoor Urban Recreation."

Discussion ensued in terms of the process taken to determine the naming of the Riverfront Preserve and the expected completion of the City portion of the project, as well as the naming of the SASA Arbor. T. Miller indicated that the completion of the 735 ft. City portion would be completed within 12 months.

A request was made to present the "Plan" to the Board prior to implementation.

B. Saginaw Career Complex (SCC) Auto Collision

M. Frost addressed the board concerning the need to procure bids for a new Industrial Air Heater Unit for the Auto Collision Program. The current unit is old, thus finding and installing parts is difficult. The manufacturer that installed the current unit, which is 18+ years old, is out of business. The estimated cost for a new unit is approximately $32,000 – not including the needed duct work to the roof.

Trustee Kopka exited the meeting at 6:13 PM.

C. Chester Miller and Jessie Rouse Roof Replacements

Board members were provided copies of roof inspections for both Chester Miller and Jessie Rouse Schools. D. Willard reviewed the information concerning the roof at both schools. There are problems with drainage and moisture getting in between the roofs.

It was noted that this request was intended for roof “replacements,” rather than inspections.

D. Webber Elementary and Webber Middle School Demolition

Board members were provided copies of all bids. D. Willard indicated that he had confirmed all licensing on the State’s website. He mentioned that he does not want any problems similar to the Morley Demolition to occur with this demolition.

Superintendent McClain reported out on the 2014-15 M-STEP Data Analysis. That was the first year (2014-15) students took this assessment. These results become the baseline data to compare in coming years. The information presented showed the comparison of our district with other Saginaw County School Districts. Mr. McClain is aware that while the data indicates we are doing better than some neighboring districts in the county at the elementary level, it is not where we need to be, especially in terms of the secondary schools. Will the State decide to continue using this assessment? We are not sure, as they have contracted with M-Step for three years and we are in the second year of M-Step, with at least one more year to go.

Congratulations to Mr. Ward’s Academic Intervention class for emerging victorious as the winner of the seventh grade book battle! The class was treated to ice cream for their victory. Mrs. Kolobaric’s class also had ice cream for finishing in second place. After the very successful school wide book read and competition between classes with the book, Touching Spirit Bear, the Kolobaric team (Kolobaric, Woods, Ward and Glocksine) has decided to embark on another competition focusing on the book, Flush, by Carl Hiaasen. The students were challenged to step out of their comfort zone to compete in a jeopardy style question/answer forum.

Students in Mr. Glocksine’s Social Studies class recently participated in a “Mock Primary Presidential Election” on the same day their parents went to the polls to vote in the Michigan Primary Election. As an assignment, students had to cast their vote and list at least two educational reasons why they chose their candidate based on what they learned. Students were educated in class during the month about each of the candidates. Most of the education was done through the use of Chrombooks, by looking at various political websites and watching videos of each of the candidates to help students come to a decision on who they think should be the next President of the United States. The results of this mock election were: Hillary Clinton (56 votes), Bernie Sanders (33 votes), and Donald Trump (1 vote).

The Kolobaric team's "Lunch Bunch," is building Lego designs as students compete with one another during the 30-day Lego challenge. Every day a new challenge is presented to individuals or small teams (depending on the task). Students are asked to create specific and/or abstract creations. Some of their projects have included: create your name, make a rocket ship, building a boat, build a hotel, design and make a new presidential monument, and many more.

Students in Mr. Espinoza's science classes are incorporating technology in their science units in conjunction with learning about the Fluid Earth Systems and Human Impact. Students use the information learned about how human activities have contributed to climate change, water and air pollution by creating a Power Point presentation on their Chromebooks to promote Earth Day.

Mrs. Kolobaric is bridging the gap between schoolwork and homework in her Science classes. At the same time she is creating a venue for parents to become a more active part of their child's daily assignments. As students work on completion of their daily work/homework, they are asked to review the concepts and ideas with their parents. If the parent signs the assignments, the child receives extra credit. The same process holds true for students reading the textbook to their parents and signing a confirmation of completion.

Students in Mrs. Hurley and Mrs. Hall's classes had the opportunity to dissect leopard frogs and pigs in a Science lab. Mrs. Hurley's students were exploring the anatomy through leopard frog dissections. They were able to identify exterior and interior anatomy of the frogs. Students used their Chromebooks to take pictures of the process and complete a Google Slides presentation. Ms. Hall's students were able to show the interior and exterior of their dissected pigs and compare them to the human anatomy. Through Google Classroom, students created a Google Slides presentation to document their findings. Students were able to use their Science skills of measurement and balance scales to determine the gestational age of the pigs and were able to look at some of the tissues through a microscope lens.

Arthur Hill High School

This project can be as long as deemed necessary (i.e., two days, three weeks, etc.). The intent of this event is to promote high community involvement.
